Research Director Outlines Financial Needs of University

By JOHN BENNITT

Henry K. Shearer, Director of the University Bureau of Business and Economic Research, said that if the University is to provide a proper education for its students it would need increased funds.

Shearer said last night in a speech before Liberal Arts Club that because of future increases in enrollment at the University additional funds would be needed to properly educate the additional students. He said that the University's enrollment could reach 6,800 in the next 15 years.

He said that a continued large investment in research is essential if the American standard of living is to be bettered and if the U. S. is to remain a free nation. He said that this research must be undertaken in the nation's colleges and universities. He said that Montana State University will want to take part in future research and service to the state and the nation. If this is to be possible, Shearer said, the University will have to receive additional funds to support such a program.

Shearer said in the past the University had received sufficient funds. He said because of the decreased value of the dollar and changes in the services to its students and residents of the state the University will need more funds than before.

Shearer said that the University at the present time was in nearly the same financial situation as the rest of the nations' universities. He noted that the relationship between University income and state income through taxes was close to the national average.

Shearer suggested several methods for obtaining increases in state funds so that increased appropriations might be available to the University. These included an increase in the state income tax, a corporate income tax, a general sales tax, rentals of state and school lands and proceeds from state natural resources such as oil and forests. He suggested that any one or several of these could be used to provide an additional source of revenue to increase the University's income.

Shearer also suggested that the University could raise its student fees. He said that this could be supported by long range low interest loans to students. He also said that this might have bad results in that student enrollment could drop because of the increased fees.

He also suggested raising fees for out of state students.

Shearer said that private gifts to the University are one source of income that had been scarcely tapped. He said that increased efforts on the part of the University ought to be made to secure these gifts.

He said the MSU Endowment Foundation was in the process of printing a booklet that would be sent to University alumni urging such gifts.

He concluded his speech saying that the University ought to redouble its efforts to convince Montana citizens that it is in the state's interest to support the University.

Shearer's speech will be published complete with tables showing the University's financial history briefly since 1896 soon.

This was the last of the current series of talks to LA Club concerning problems of the University. J. W. Smurr, instructor of history and political science, said he was disappointed in that he had hoped to attract people from Missoula to the meetings. Smurr was the director of the programs presented by LA Club during the current series.

Television Studio Control Equipment Now Being Tested

Control room equipment in MSU's new television studios is being tested this week, according to Archer Taylor, engineering director of radio-tv.

Taylor and his two engineers, Marvin Hegre and Robert Sherpenseel, are busy testing the sync generator, setting monitors and making a multitude of other modifications necessary before preliminary camera tests.

Still to be installed is some of the audio equipment in the main studio. Aside from this, the equipment installation is nearly complete, Taylor said.

An RCA field engineering team will come to the University for final adjustments and instruction on the new installation.

The radio-tv production class, under the supervision of Erling S. Jorgensen, director of radio-tv studios, has already made use of the new studios. The class met in the tv-center last week for preliminary instruction in studio lighting and equipment.

Presidency on Agenda Today For State Board of Education

By TED HULBERT

Merritt Warden, chairman of the State Board of Education selection committee, told the Montana Kaimin last night he is "hoping" the Board will name a permanent University president this afternoon.

Warden, a Kalispell attorney and alumnus of the University, said "it's something I've been hoping (to have done) for several months. I think we've all been hoping that way."

The Kaimin contacted Warden at a private home in Helena late last night where he is staying during the two-day Board meeting which began yesterday.

On Agenda Today

Warden said that the University presidency will be on the agenda of the Board today.

Earlier yesterday, a United Press International dispatch indicated that the University's next president may be named this afternoon.

The UPI dispatch said:

"The State Board of Education may name a permanent president of Montana State University (today)—apparently from one of four candidates already interviewed."

"Merritt Warden, chairman of a Board committee named to screen candidates, said the Board hopes to complete selection of the man who would replace acting president Gordon B. Castle 'early in the afternoon.'"

"Warden's statement followed a session in the office of Dorothy Green, present executive secretary to the six presidents of the University units."

"But not all Board members were present during (the afternoon) discussion."

"However, the Board had met in previous closed session in the governor's reception room earlier in the day."

Expressing hope that the permanent president will be named today, Warden also told the Kaimin, "I don't know if you can say the situation has changed too much."

Other Members

Asked about attitudes of other members of the Board, Warden said he thinks other Board members share his hopes.

There was also discussion yesterday about appointment of an executive secretary for the greater university system, who would strengthen actions by the Board and the council of university presidents.

Warden told the Kaimin that the Board would certainly not appoint the secretary at this month's meeting.

The senior debate team, Larry Pettit of Lewistown and Duane Jackson of Butte, won four debates and lost two last weekend at the Northwest Intercollegiate Tournament at Linfield College, McMinnville, Oregon.

Colleges they defeated include the University of Utah, Salt Lake City, Stanford University, Palo Alto, Calif., University of Oregon at Eugene, and Willamette University, Salem, Oregon.

They were defeated by Whitman College, Walla Walla, Washington, and the College of the Pacific, Stockton, California.

Approximately 35 colleges were represented at the tournament.

Pettit and Jackson will participate in the Tau Kappa Alpha Tournament at Rutgers University, New Brunswick, New Jersey, March 23 to 25.

SORORITY RUSH SLATED

Sorority spring rush will be conducted from April 7 through 12. Interested women must register in Dean Clow's office before April 2. Sororities will issue invitations for lunch and dinner. The registration fee is $3.

Speaking of both the University president and the executive secretary, Warden said, "You can't speculate on these things."

Candidates

The four candidates interviewed by the Board for the presidency are Samuel P. Hayes Jr., 48, director of the Foundation for Research on Human Behavior, Ann Arbor, Mich.; C. N. Crain, 45, chairman of the geography department of the sciences division at the University of Denver, Colo.; C. Addison Hickman, 42, dean of the liberal arts school at North Carolina State College, Raleigh, N. C.; and H. K. Newburn, Ann Arbor, who has taken a short-term position with the Ford Foundation.

The first three men were interviewed a month ago yesterday, and Newburn early in September.

Little Man on Campus

By Dick Bibler

"SAY, PHYLLIS, IS THAT YOUR BASKETBALL PLAYER YOU'VE BEEN TELLING ME ABOUT?"

Sensible Letter

Larry Pettit's letter to Clint Grimes, former chairman of Judicial Council, is a sensible one. ASMSU President Pettit, in accepting Grimes' resignation from the Council, has pointed out—as have Grimes and the Montana Kaimin—that Dean Cogswell's suggestion that the Council "initiate" its own cases is an unacceptable suggestion.

It is fortunate that Pettit has stated that "drinking done by students does not vary from campus to campus—if anything it is less here than elsewhere." (Complete text of letter on this page.)

Pettit has pointed out also, as has the Kaimin frequently, that the present liquor regulations are unrealistic. The Kaimin agrees with him that "college students will always drink" and that "disciplinary action should be brought against only those students who embarrass the University by acting in a disorderly manner."

The Kaimin hopes with Pettit that Judicial Council can be continued in order to maintain a student voice in liquor matters. If, however, the Council is to be continued only under Dean Cogswell's request that it "initiate" cases (or "sleuth," as Pettit has stated the situation more aptly), it would be better for students to abandon the idea of a Judicial Council and turn to other means of making themselves heard.

Creditable Finish

Montana finished fourth in the Skyline championship swimming meet here during the weekend—a fact which in itself may not look impressive.

For those who attended the meet, however, the reason why Montana did not take first or second place honors is clear. Montana suffered from a lack of depth, a fact which has been pointed out time and again this year. Montana's swimming team competed with other teams which had twice and three times as many members. The fact that the University took fourth place actually becomes a credit to the Montana team members, who worked against hopeless odds.

With more scholarship aid and more interest in the sport Montana's swimmers could easily take the Skyline title this time next year.

Complete Text of Pettit's Letter

Mr. Clint Grims
Montana State University
Missoula, Montana

Dear Clint:

It is with regret that I accept your resignation from the chairmanship of Judicial Council.

The Dean's suggestion that the council members play sleuth repels me as it does you; it accents the nervous panic that has characterized the administration's action on "drinking", and has brought unfavorable publicity to the University at large. It also must be a signal of futility to you after your sincere campaign to modernize and ameliorate a situation of legislated morals.

In the last four years I have paid visits to over 20 different campuses, including the other units of Montana's greater university. The amount of drinking done by students does not vary from campus to campus—if anything it is less here than elsewhere. But at the other schools there is no panic, no concentrated ferreting out of "violators" of the code, no subsequent publicity about disciplinary action against individuals and groups, and therefore no stigma of a bad reputation.

College students will always drink. There is no need to single out MSU students and depict them as alcoholics to the people of the state. I agree with you that the most ridiculous of the present rules must be changed, that disciplinary action should be brought against only those students who embarrass the University by acting in a disorderly manner, and that Judicial Council members should not be asked to search for violators of the existing rules.

My hope is that it is still worthwhile to try to maintain a student voice in such matters, to try to continue a functioning Judicial Council.

Honor Codes, Social Conduct Being Considered

• The Student Senate at the University of Utah tabled its honor code for an indefinite time, stating that "the basic problem is not whether an honor code would be a good thing in theory, but whether or not it can be successfully applied to this campus through a program to educate both faculty and students to its purpose."

• Penalties meted out to University of Minnesota students by the Committee on Student Behavior and the power of the Dean of Students office to suspend students, barring them from registering at the university and also preventing them from obtaining a transcript and entering another university, was judged to be "excessive punishment meted out for trivial charges and based on one-sided evidence."

• Brigham Young University has doubled its scholarship program. Undergraduate awards range from scholarships for one quarter up to full tuition and fees for four years. Graduate awards range from $1000 to $1255 a year and 85 scholarships will be awarded to students already in college doing outstanding work.

• San Jose State College students are working for an Independent Men-Women's Council to represent those students who live away from home and who are not affiliated with either a fraternity or a sorority.

Grizzlies Close Ball Season With Pair of Road Victories

By DUTCH MINGS

The Montana Grizzlies closed their basketball season successfully over the weekend with a pair of victories on the road. Friday night the Grizzlies held on for a 70-66 win over the Colorado State University Rams and Saturday night they clamed the Cowboys of Wyoming, 85-65.

The two wins gave Montana sole possession of fifth place with a record of seven wins and seven losses.

In Friday night's game, the Grizzlies took advantage of a small court to put on a full court press in the first half. The CSU boys panicked and found themselves trailing at halftime by a 43 to 30 margin.

When the second half started, the Grizzlies threatened to make a rout of the game, then hit a cold spell. The Rams rallied to within one point of the Grizzlies on three occasions, but could never tie or overtake the Grizzlies.

With the Montanans leading 67 to 66 with 15 seconds left in the game, Terry Screnar slipped behind the Rams' defense to score a layup and put the game on ice. Darrol Dunham added a free throw after the game had ended.

Marvin Suttles, senior Grizzly center, was the main reason for Montana's first win in 28 years on any Colorado court. The big kid from Chicago was murder on the boards, getting 21 rebounds, and scored 25 points, most of them tip-ins. Chuck Newcomb, CSU center, also scored 25 points to tie Suttles for high point honors.

On Saturday night, the Grizzlies went north to Laramie to hand Wyoming's Cowboys their 22nd defeat, including 13 skyline defeats.

The only opposition encountered by the Grizzlies was in the person of fabulous Tony Windis, who scored 31 points to set an all-time Wyoming scoring record. Windis scored a total of 1,465 points in three years to break Milo Kome-nich's old record of 1,140 points in a three year period.

Wyoming twice took one-point leads early in the first half, 15 to 14 and 17 to 16, but soon ran out of gas and trailed at half-time by a 41-34 margin.

Montana steadily increased its margin in the second half with a well-balanced scoring attack. Six Grizzlies finished in double figures.

Terry Screnar led them with 19 points.

The outcome might have been more one-sided had not Suttles been forced to leave the game for most of the first half. Suttles, who had scored four points, suffered a cut over his right eye when he got in the way of Clarence Lively's elbow. Suttles returned to the game in the second half and wound up with 10 points.

Other Silvertips who scored in double figures were Ruegsegger with 11, Balko with 18, Dunham with 14 and Ignatowicz with 11.

It was the final game for three Grizzly seniors. They are centers Marvin Suttles and Dave Shelby and forward Darrol Dunham.

Skyline Swimming Predictions Come True

Montana's first Skyline swimming meet ran true to form. The pre-tournament favorites were Wyoming, Utah and Denver.

Wyoming was figured to be the team to beat because of its earlier upset victory over Denver, the Skyline's perennial champions. Wyoming scored 142, Denver 103.

Utah was rated better than Denver because in the western division finals the team cracked seven records in posting a 125 to 63 win over Montana.

Wyoming and Utah battled it out all the way, with the Cowboys grabbing the edge in the backstroke and holding the lead in the remaining races and diving.

The final tabulations were Wyoming, 105½; Utah, 95; Denver, 69½; Montana, 47; New Mexico, 28; Utah State, 22; Colorado State, 5.

Nine records were shattered. Darwin Killpack of Utah set three records and Montana's Ivan Jacobsen set two and aided in another.

Jacobsen set records in the 100 and 200-yard butterfly and was also a member of Montana's record-breaking 400-yard medley relay.

Another Montana ace, Bob McKinnon, loafed to an easy win in the 100-yard freestyle heat, but his time eliminated him from the finals. There were three heats held for six places in the final.

McKinnon's time in the past indicated that he would have probably taken the event.

In the diving contest Montana's Bill Brubaker was runner-up to

New Mexico's ace performer, Jax Moxley.

In the final event of the meet, the 400-yard medley relay, Doug James and Wayne Veeneman held their own against the pack, and then Jacobsen gained the edge necessary for McKinnon's win.

NEWBURN IS U PRESIDENT

By TED HULBERT

Dr. Harry K. Newburn, 53, was named president of the University this morning by the State Board of Education in Helena.

He is the 10th man to be named permanent president since 1895, and will begin his duties on a part time basis July 1. He will take the position on a full time basis Aug. 15, replacing Acting President Gordon Castle, who has served since the resignation of Dr. Carl McFarland was accepted by the Board in May.

Newburn's appointment by the Board was unanimous.

Newburn, of Ann Arbor, Mich., is now president of the Educational Television and Radio Center in that city. He served as president of the University of Oregon for eight years before his appointment to the Ann Arbor position in 1953.

Board member Merritt Warden, chairman of the selections committee, told the Kaimin of Newburn's appointment. "I think the State of Montana is very fortunate in getting a man of the stature of Dr. Newburn," Warden said in a telephone call from Helena.

He said Newburn told him, upon hearing of his appointment by the Board, that he hopes to attend the Board's next meeting in Helena April 6. Warden told the Kaimin Newburn will probably be on campus after that meeting.

The news of Newburn's appointment, which first reached the campus at 11 a.m., was viewed favorably by members of the administration.

Dr. Robert Turner, dean of the College of Arts and Sciences, said, "I have met Dr. Newburn and was much impressed. Since he was president of the University of Oregon, he knows University problems from top to bottom. He is a scholar in his own right, and I know he will do a top-notch job."

Robert Pantzer, executive vice president of the University, said that "he has a great deal of experience and excellent background for the job."

Dr. Earl Lory, dean of the faculty, was not on campus last summer when Newburn visited here. He said, however, that he knows Newburn has "very fine recommendations."

Dr. Newburn and his wife Wandalee have three children, Jacquelyn, Robert Lee and Michael. Only the third will join them in their new home here, however, Warden told the Kaimin.

Before his presidency at the University of Oregon, Newburn served as dean and professor of liberal arts at the State University of Iowa from 1941-45 and as assistant and associate professor of education at the same institution from 1933-41.

Newburn's affiliations include education honoraries, the Congregational Church, Rotary and the Masonic Lodge.

Warden told the Kaimin that Newburn commented, upon hearing of his selection:

"I appreciate very much the confidence the State Board of Education has shown in me by electing me president. It is my intent to work wholeheartedly with my colleagues and the many others interested in the University to improve in every possible manner its service to the state and the region. "The next few years will be most difficult ones for higher education and only through the cooperation of all concerned can the state provide for the educational needs of its young people on a high qualitative basis.

"I shall do my best to cooperate with other educational leaders of the state in such efforts."

Newburn was chosen from four candidates interviewed by the Board after the selections committee had sifted numerous applications.

The other three men interviewed were Samuel P. Hayes Jr., 48, director of the Foundation for Research on Human Behavior at Ann Arbor; C. N. Crain, 45, chairman of the Geography Department at Denver University; and C. Addison Hickman, 42, dean of liberal arts at North Carolina State College in Raleigh, N. C.

Research Director Outlines Financial Needs of University

By JOHN BENNITT

Henry K. Shearer, Director of the University Bureau of Business and Economic Research, said that if the University is to provide a proper education for its students it would need increased funds.

Shearer said last night in a speech before Liberal Arts Club that because of future increases in enrollment at the University additional funds would be needed to properly educate the additional students. He said that the University's enrollment could reach 6,800 in the next 15 years.

He said that a continued large investment in research is essential if the American standard of living is to be bettered and if the U. S. is to remain a free nation. He said that this research must be undertaken in the nation's colleges and universities. He said that Montana State University will want to take part in future research and service to the state and the nation. If this is to be possible, Shearer said, the University will have to receive additional funds to support such a program.

Shearer said in the past the University had received sufficient funds. He said because of the decreased value of the dollar and changes in the services to its students and residents of the state the University will need more funds than before.

Shearer said that the University at the present time was in nearly the same financial situation as the rest of the nation's universities. He noted that the relationship between University income and state income through taxes was close to the national average.

Shearer suggested several methods for obtaining increases in state funds so that increased appropriations might be available to the University. These included an increase in the state income tax, a corporate income tax, a general sales tax, rentals of state and school lands and proceeds from state natural resources such as oil and forests. He suggested that any one or several of these could be used to provide an additional source of revenue to increase the University's income.

Shearer also suggested that the University could raise its student fees. He said that this could be supported by long range low interest loans to students. He also said that this might have had results in that student enrollment could drop because of the increased fees.

He also suggested raising fees for out of state students.

Shearer said that private gifts to the University are one source of income that had been scarcely tapped. He said that increased efforts on the part of the University ought to be made to secure these gifts.

He said the MSU Endowment Foundation was in the process of printing a booklet that would be sent to University alumni urging such gifts.

He concluded his speech saying that the University ought to redouble its efforts to convince Montana citizens that it is in the state's interest to support the University.

Shearer's speech will be published, complete with tables showing the University's financial history briefly since 1896 soon.

This was the last of the current series of talks to LA Club concerning problems of the University. J. W. Smurr, instructor of history and political science, said he was disappointed in that he had hoped to attract people from Missoula to the meetings. Smurr was the director of the programs presented by LA Club during the current series.

Television Studio Control Equipment Now Being Tested

Control room equipment in MSU's new television studios is being tested this week, according to Archer Taylor, engineering director of radio-tv.

Taylor and his two engineers, Marvin Hegre and Robert Sherpenseel, are busy testing the sync generator, setting monitors and making a multitude of other modifications necessary before preliminary camera tests.

Still to be installed is some of the audio equipment in the main studio. Aside from this, the equipment installation is nearly complete, Taylor said.

An RCA field engineering team will come to the University for final adjustments and instruction on the new installation.

The radio-tv production class, under the supervision of Erling S. Jorgensen, director of radio-tv studios, has already made use of the new studios. The class met in the tv-center last week for preliminary instruction in studio lighting and equipment.

Little Man on Campus

By Dick Bibler

"SAY, PHYLLIS, IS THAT YOUR BASKETBALL PLAYER YOU'VE BEEN TELLING ME ABOUT?"

Sensible Letter

Larry Pettit's letter to Clint Grimes, former chairman of Judicial Council, is a sensible one. ASMSU President Pettit, in accepting Grimes' resignation from the Council, has pointed out—as have Grimes and the Montana Kaimin—that Dean Cogswell's suggestion that the Council "initiate" its own cases is an unacceptable suggestion.

It is fortunate that Pettit has stated that "drinking done by students does not vary from campus to campus—if anything it is less here than elsewhere." (Complete text of letter on this page.)

Pettit has pointed out also, as has the Kaimin frequently, that the present liquor regulations are unrealistic. The Kaimin agrees with him that "college students will always drink" and that "disciplinary action should be brought against only those students who embarrass the University by acting in a disorderly manner."

The Kaimin hopes with Pettit that Judicial Council can be continued in order to maintain a student voice in liquor matters. If, however, the Council is to be continued only under Dean Cogswell's request that it "initiate" cases (or "sleuth," as Pettit has stated the situation more aptly), it would be better for students to abandon the idea of a Judicial Council and turn to other means of making themselves heard.

Creditable Finish

Montana finished fourth in the Skyline championship swimming meet here during the weekend—a fact which in itself may not look impressive.

For those who attended the meet, however, the reason why Montana did not take first or second place honors is clear. Montana suffered from a lack of depth, a fact which has been pointed out time and again this year. Montana's swimming team competed with other teams which had twice and three times as many members. The fact that the University took fourth place actually becomes a credit to the Montana team members, who worked against hopeless odds.

With more scholarship aid and more interest in the sport Montana's swimmers could easily take the Skyline title this time next year.

Complete Text of Pettit's Letter

Mr. Clint Grims
Montana State University
Missoula, Montana

Dear Clint:

It is with regret that I accept your resignation from the chairmanship of Judicial Council.

The Dean's suggestion that the council members play sleuth repels me as it does you; it accents the nervous panic that has characterized the administration's action on "drinking", and has brought unfavorable publicity to the University at large. It also must be a signal of futility to you after your sincere campaign to modernize and ameliorate a situation of legislated morals.

In the last four years I have paid visits to over 20 different campuses, including the other units of Montana's greater university. The amount of drinking done by students does not vary from campus to campus—if anything it is less here than elsewhere. But at the other schools there is no panic, no concentrated ferreting out of "violators" of the code, no subsequent publicity about disciplinary action against individuals and groups, and therefore no stigma of a bad reputation.

College students will always drink. There is no need to single out MSU students and depict them as alcoholics to the people of the state. I agree with you that the most ridiculous of the present rules must be changed, that disciplinary action should be brought against only those students who embarrass the University by acting in a disorderly manner, and that Judicial Council members should not be asked to search for violators of the existing rules.

My hope is that it is still worthwhile to try to maintain a student voice in such matters, to try to continue a functioning Judicial Council.

Grizzlies Close Ball Season With Pair of Road Victories

By DUTCH MINGS

The Montana Grizzlies closed their basketball season successfully over the weekend with a pair of victories on the road. Friday night the Grizzlies held on for a 70-66 win over the Colorado State University Rams and Saturday night they clawed the Cowboys of Wyoming, 85-65.

The two wins gave Montana sole possession of fifth place with a record of seven wins and seven losses.

In Friday night's game, the Grizzlies took advantage of a small court to put on a full court press in the first half. The CSU boys panicked and found themselves trailing at halftime by a 43 to 30 margin.

When the second half started, the Grizzlies threatened to make a rout of the game, then hit a cold spell. The Rams rallied to within one point of the Grizzlies on three occasions, but could never tie or overtake the Grizzlies.

With the Montanans leading 67 to 66 with 15 seconds left in the game, Terry Screnar slipped behind the Rams' defense to score a layup and put the game on ice. Darrol Dunham added a free throw after the game had ended.

Marvin Suttles, senior Grizzly center, was the main reason for Montana's first win in 28 years on any Colorado court. The big kid from Chicago was murder on the boards, getting 21 rebounds, and scored 25 points, most of them tip-ins. Chuck Newcomb, CSU center, also scored 25 points to tie Suttles for high point honors.

On Saturday night, the Grizzlies went north to Laramie to hand Wyoming's Cowboys their 22nd defeat, including 13 skyline defeats.

The only opposition encountered by the Grizzlies was in the person of fabulous Tony Windis, who scored 31 points to set an all-time Wyoming scoring record. Windis scored a total of 1,465 points in three years to break Milo Kome-nich's old record of 1,140 points in a three year period.

Wyoming twice took one-point leads early in the first half, 15 to 14 and 17 to 16, but soon ran out of gas and trailed at half-time by a 41-34 margin.

Montana steadily increased its margin in the second half with a well-balanced scoring attack. Six Grizzlies finished in double figures.

Skyline Swimming Predictions Come True

Montana's first Skyline swimming meet ran true to form. The pre-tournament favorites were Wyoming, Utah and Denver.

Wyoming was figured to be the team to beat because of its earlier upset victory over Denver, the Skyline's perennial champions. Wyoming scored 142, Denver 103.

Utah was rated better than Denver because in the western division finals the team cracked seven records in posting a 125 to 63 win over Montana.

Wyoming and Utah battled it out all the way, with the Cowboys grabbing the edge in the backstroke and holding the lead in the remaining races and diving.

The final tabulations were Wyoming, 105½; Utah, 95; Denver, 69½; Montana, 47; New Mexico, 28; Utah State, 22; Colorado State, 5.

Nine records were shattered. Darwin Killpack of Utah set three records and Montana's Ivan Jacobsen set two and aided in another.

Jacobsen set records in the 100 and 200-yard butterfly and was also a member of Montana's record-breaking 400-yard medley relay.

Another Montana ace, Bob McKinnon, loafed to an easy win in the 100-yard freestyle heat, but his time eliminated him from the finals. There were three heats held for six places in the final.

McKinnon's time in the past indicated that he would have probably taken the event.

In the diving contest Montana's Bill Brubaker was runner-up to

New Mexico's ace performer, Jax Moxley.

In the final event of the meet, the 400-yard medley relay, Doug James and Wayne Veeneman held their own against the pack, and then Jacobsen gained the edge necessary for McKinnon's win.
